Toolkit for Librarians

This collection of resources is designed to help librarians produce a successful Tales and Travel Memories program.

Sample Agenda for an Excursion

- Greet each person individually as s/he enters the room.
- Use a globe or large map to show each person where s/he is now and where the excursion will take them.
- Residents take turns reading aloud from a folktale or story representative of the area.
- Residents read aloud five interesting facts about the region. Facts should be typed in a large, clear font.
- Distribute highly illustrated books about the destination. These titles are selected from the library's adult and children's collections. Residents browse at their own pace.
- Initiate informal, casual conversation with residents. This adds a personal and social touch to the program. Be creative, and have fun!
- Use this facilitation checklist to ensure that your program has been designed to meet the needs and abilities of those living with dementia. DOWNLOAD the checklist.

Verona is also well known for its 1st century Roman Arena. Let's stop at this outdoor café for a cool drink and to enjoy the view.

Our trip to Italy starts in the far northern Alpine regions of the country near Bolzano. The beautiful scenery includes green terraced fields. Can you see the ancient castle on the hilltop?

...or would you prefer gelato?

Alzheimer's Fiction and Memoirs

Community-created list

As the Alzheimer's and dementia epidemic spreads exponentially, here are some fiction and non-fiction attempts to both chronicle and understand the disease, and its effects on caregivers. This list contains some different perspectives, different emphasis on caregiver, different scenarios, some juvenile works, even a graphic novel... Peace to you all!
